45 Thrive Campaign a Complete Success

45 THRIVE

Plan - Prosper - Protect

At an FTC Board meeting in March 2019, the idea of a reserve fund, or endowment, was first put forth by Glenn Hilliard, the original chairman of the Foothills Trail Conference, and a long-time supporter and advisor to the Conservancy. He felt that if the Conservancy was to be a viable entity for years to come that it needed to create a monetary reserve to be able to absorb hard financial times or take care of large expenses related to maintaining the Trail.

A Development Committee was formed and tasked with formulating ideas for how to create this fund, how much it should contain, who would control it, what it could be used for, and how it could be accessed. The committee would report their ideas at the next Board meeting.

By the September 25, 2019 Board meeting the Development Committee, chaired by Becky Gilstrap, had begun to gather ideas for a fund-raising campaign that would be conducted in 2020. Various ideas were discussed as to who to approach, the timing of the campaign, what amount to raise, and how long it should go on. Glenn Hilliard continued to offer assistance and put the committee in touch with a friend that was a professional fundraiser to give additional counsel on how to conduct a proper and successful campaign.

Becky and her committee began to develop promotional material to inform potential donors about the Conservancy's needs and reasons for establishing an endowment. The name "45 Thrive" for the campaign was chosen and represented the 45th anniversary of the FTC and the goal of helping the Conservancy to thrive for years to come. The entire Board was also challenged to donate to demonstrate their commitment to the 45 Thrive campaign.

The ultimate goal of the 45 Thrive campaign was to raise a total of $300,000 which was to be placed in an endowment fund and managed with the help of a major investment company. From January through May of this year, beginning with a donor's "Celebration", the Development Committee and members of the Board personally contacted potential donors, made phone calls, and advertised the campaign through letters, email messages, social media and the FTC website. The lofty goal was achieved when pledges and donations ultimately exceeded $300,000!

The Foothills Trail Conservancy wishes to thank everyone who made a contribution, large or small, that made this ambitious campaign a huge success. Each gift to our 45 Thrive Campaign is an investment to ensure that future generations can explore the natural beauty along the Foothills Trail for many years to come.

Signage to Hilliard Falls

One of the nicest waterfalls on the Foothills Trail now has a set of signs directing hikers to its location. Hilliard Falls is located 5.8 miles east of the Bad Creek access and 3.9 miles west of the Horsepasture River bridge, but the only sign indicating its presence was at the spur trail to the waterfall itself.

As the result of a donation made to the Conservancy, five signs, matching the style of other Foothills Trail signs, were purchased and mounted on wooden posts in the Fall of 2019. During the Fall and Winter of 2019, when opportunities arose to reach the site for each sign, they were installed at the appropriate spots.

THE SILENT AUCTION IS BACK!!!

It is time for our second annual silent auction to raise money for the FTC! Please remember to stop by our FTC store at the meeting for great deals on all of our Foothills Trail merchandise as well. What great opportunities to get some holiday shopping done! We will be able to accept cash or check only as we don't have access to wifi at the event!
Thank you for your continued support of our trail!

“Round About Greenville and the Carolina Blue Ridge “

Pam Shucker and Bill Robertson, both Greenville natives, will present a program on their book “Round About Greenville and the Carolina Blue Ridge“. They published their book to entice others to explore, appreciate, and enjoy the spectacular natural area they call home. Pam, a certified Master Naturalist, has spent a 30-year career as an environmental writer, speaker, and teacher. Bill, after leaving a corporate career in mid-life, has spent 20 years taking photographs that are not only appealing to the eye, but soothing to the soul. Bill and Pam will share some of the memorable experiences they have had while hiking and exploring the Blue Ridge Mountain areas around Greenville. They will encourage you to experience a handpicked selection of special spots that they know well; places that invite you to slow your pace, become aware, and reflect on Nature’s marvelous gifts.

The book may be purchased at M. Judson, Mast General Store, Appalachian Outfitters, and on Amazon. Bill and Pam will also have the book available at the meeting and will sign autographs.

Volunteers improve FHT within Table Rock State Park

At the Annual Meeting in November 2019, members of the Conservancy built over 100 feet of boardwalk in Table Rock State Park – a very noteworthy project that was accomplished with funds donated by REI. Prior to the Annual Meeting a local Boy Scout, as his Eagle project, installed steps and a handrail at a point on the Trail that allowed hikers to bypass a very large area of tree roots. The boardwalk project was continued in January 2020, when another 40 feet of boardwalk was added in the area immediately beyond the portion constructed at the Annual Meeting.

In addition to the boardwalk construction, on the January 4th workday volunteers also removed several blowdowns, improved parts of the trail and several stream crossings, and drained several wet areas.

Another workday, with 30 volunteers, was held on January 25, 2020, and it concentrated on the part of the Foothills Trail below the Mill Creek Falls spur. During this outing, the volunteers divided into teams and worked on separate major projects. One team, led by FTC Chairman Steve Pagano, filled in a huge rootball hole and built a new trail around it, making it much safer to traverse!

While another team worked along the trailsides to remove stickers and other heavy vegetation, a third team cleared a complicated blowdown at the stream crossing below a waterfall. They also added boulders to the crossing to make it easier to negotiate. Just beyond the waterfall, a fourth team constructed a reroute at a spot known as “the squeeze” - a very narrow area between boulders that was difficult to get through. This reroute made life easier for all hikers, but backpackers in particular!!

In late June, Dan and Gail Johnson spent nearly 30 hours over three days reblazing the Foothills Trail through the park to the boundary near Drawbar Cliffs.

While another team worked along the trailsides to remove stickers and other heavy vegetation, a third team cleared a complicated blowdown at the stream crossing below a waterfall. They also added boulders to the crossing to make it easier to negotiate. Just beyond the waterfall, a fourth team constructed a reroute at a spot known as “the squeeze” - a very narrow area between boulders that was difficult to get through. This reroute made life easier for all hikers, but backpackers in particular!!
